By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Granite City school bonds totaling $6,000,000 were sold by the Board of Education on Thursday night to Blunt, Ellis & Loewi, Inc., of Chicago and Belleville, at an interest rate of 10.372121 percent.

A majority of the Dec. 31, 1984, working cash fund bond issue is being purchased by banks in the local community. The non-rated 10-year bonds, to be delivered Jan. 30, require $4,472,583 in interest, less $27,198 accrued interest, for a net cost of $1,015,385 ($6,600,000 and $4,415,385).

THE INITIAL TAX levy of $1.069,021 was enacted for May 1985 to August 1985 collection.

Later levies will be $1,102,250 for collection in 1986 followed by $1,102,375, $1,120,937, $1,107,837, $1,113,375, $1,110,937, $1,102,750, $1,111,562 and $1,131,437 for collection in 1994.

The district also must retire $5 million in 10-month tax anticipation notes issued in July 1984.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL (with Secretary Alan Crider absent) was given to the negotiated bond sale, which was arranged by Don M. Lindberg, Blunt, Ellis & Loewi public finance vice president.

A Dec. 18 board resolution setting the stage for the sale was revised Thursday night to include the precise costs and to abate some of the taxation that had been outlined. Bond retirements will occur each Dec. 1, with interest paid June 1 and Dec. 1.

Bonds due to be retired on and after Dec. 1, 1992, can be redeemed, fully or partially, prior to their maturity—at the school district's option—on Dec. 1, 1991, or later.

REDEMPTION PRICE would be 101 percent of par value (1 percent premium) if redeemed Dec. 1, 1991, or June 1, 1992; 100.5 percent Dec. 1, 1992, or June 1, 1993; and 100 percent Dec. 1, 1993, or after.

Bond registrar will be the American National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

To verify that the interest rate is appropriate, there is no exactly comparable recent or current bond issue, it was related by Finance Director Norman Owea and Board Members Dewey Melton and Monroe Worthen.

MELTON CONSIDERED seeking a delay until tonight's board meeting—to allow more time in which to continue a search for comparisons—but decided to vote affirmatively Thursday after a wide-ranging board discussion.

Lindberg chose not to seek a rating because of the belief that it could be adverse, blocking the sale despite voters' Nov. 6 approval.

Without the opportunity to convert part of the school system's debt from short-term to long-term, through the bond sale, it was felt the district might be unable to continue operating its schools.

NEGATIVE FACTORS in obtaining lower interest included: a decline or plateau in assessed valuation; the extent of the schools' debt; the fact that the tax base includes a major property owner, Granite City Steel, instead of being limited to a broad base of small taxpayers; and the fact that Granite City Steel has sought legally to have four-fifths of its assessed valuation removed.

Other aspects taken into account in evaluating bonds include a taxing body's financial condition and the trends thought to be affecting it, school officials said.

Lindberg stressed that early redemption could be wise if interest rates decrease, enabling the debt to be refinanced, or in the event that some other type of loan like Life Safety Code bonding was to be considered.

Retirement of principal is progressive in the debt service schedule that was adopted, amounting to only $100,000 the first year but $850,000 in 1992, $950,000 in 1993 and $1,075,000 in 1994.

IN ORDER TO ASSURE flexibility—by possibly invoking early bond redemption—the district is agreeing to a premium payment that would amount to an extra cost of $27,000 or $28,000, Lindberg estimated.

Testing of the local and Midwestern market, including savings and loan associations, showed little or no desire to buy Granite City school bonds, the investment official said.

S&L's nationally have less regard for tax-exempt governmental bonds because taxable bonds yield higher interest earnings—and many of the savings firms pay less taxes now due to suffering operating losses—Lindberg commented.

COOK COUNTY BONDS for multi-family housing were sold early last week for 11.5 percent interest, a discussion brought out.

A recent bond issue with triple-A credit rating resulted in 9.5 percent interest, it was stated.

Lindberg said he has every confidence in School District Nine and its future and that, if there were no legal bar on his participation, he would have considered the bond issue an attractive purchase.

Mandatory seat belt law explained

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

"If you thought that when you left here you were going to be in an auto accident—you were going to get hit really hard—you would put your seat belt on," Sgt. David Young, public information officer for Illinois State Police District 11, stated as he addressed the Granite City Optimist Club Thursday afternoon.

Young said the State Police is starting a major drive to convince people to voluntarily use their seat belts. "We really don't want to write

Bitter cold spell ends

Bitter cold temperatures descended on the Quad-City area during the weekend, peaking at -18° about 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

The cold kept many cars and trucks from starting and side-by-side vehicles linked by jumper cables was a common sight Sunday as friends helped each other get their cars started.

IN ST. LOUIS, the cold has been listed as a contributing cause in at least two deaths and several frostbite cases. St. Louis and St. Louis County schools were among those closed today due to the cold, but Quad-City area schools opened this morning as the temperature climbed during the night to 5° about 6 a.m. today and was expected to peak near 20° this afternoon.

The weather forecast calls for an end to subzero temperatures, at least through the end of this week.

FILLING IN LOT. A dump truck unloads fill material for the parking lot at the new Knights of Columbus hall, formerly Johnson School. Neighbors contend the dumping is compounding

K of C actions angering neighbors

Opening of lounge to public is criticized.

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
of the Press-Record

A five-month-old agreement between the Tri-Cities Knights of Columbus Council 1098 and Norwood Drive vicinity residents, has left the residents skeptical about their new neighbors.

Residents contend that work being performed on the parking lot of the group's new facility at 4225 Old Altan Road (formerly Johnson School) is causing the homes adjacent to the parking lot additional drainage problems. Residents also are complaining that the Knights are opening their social lounge to the public, something the residents claim the Knights promised not to do.

IN A MEETING Saturday, Andy Molosky, a lawyer representing the Knights and Aaron Meyer, director of buildings for the Columbus Home

Association, talked with four residents and Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak about the concerns.

According to Molosky, construction that is being performed on the parking lot should not be causing the residents additional problems.

Molosky said that preparation for the lot has included the removal of six inches of dirt from the affected area. Workers currently are bringing in truckloads of landfill material that will fill in four inches of the lowered area. After this process, two inches of gravel will be spread over the landfill material.

SOME RESIDENTS said they were confused when the landfill material was brought in. They were not aware that any material had been removed. They, instead, thought that the parking lot area was being built up so that water would no longer be on their property, but in the residents' yards instead.

Molosky denied this rumor. He said the workers were not building the land any higher than it had been originally. Furthermore, he stated that, once completed, the Knights have devised a plan that will take the water from their parking lot and route it into a ditch.

Mrs. Perjak then asked the Knights about their advertisements that say their social lounge is open to the public. She asked Molosky why the Knights were running such advertisements when she thought they had promised not to open their lounge to the public.

MIOSKY COMMENTED that the Knights had never agreed to that condition. He did, however, concede that the Knights had offered to restrict their lounge to card-carrying members only, during the negotiation talks. "That point was never agreed on, though," he said.

He further stated that the only terms to which the Knights agreed were the two conditions spelled out in the ordinance—that the Knights (Continued on Page 6)

SEMC's United Way film wins a video bronze award

By STEPHEN WHITWORTH
St. Elizabeth Medical Center

When it comes to the United Way, the people at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, have been strong supporters. During the 1984 drive, the associates at SEMC contributed a total of $21,212 to the United Way.

But at least one St. Elizabeth associate contributed more than just money to the organization's campaign. He contributed two weeks of his time to produce a promotional film illustrating the ways that United Way funds are used by various agencies in the Quad-City area. And in return, the United Way of Greater St. Louis has honored Bob Gill, video specialist at SEMC, with a bronze award in its annual United Way Communications Competition.

THE RECOGNITION is particularly rewarding for Gill in light of the caliber of his competition. The awards are given by the local United Way to those organizations and individuals who produce the best educational and promotional materials in a variety of categories. The list of award winners includes Anheuser-Busch, Southwestern Bell and Union Electric. Gill, a resident of Edwardsville, competed against the biggest organizations in the area, and he fared very well.

Gill was awarded third place in the category of Best Audio/Visual or Video Package. "The only two companies that beat us in that category were Southwestern Bell and Union Electric," Gill said. "They both have very expensive TV operations. They have been using video for 20 years. They have very well developed operations. In one sense, it shows that we were able to compete against these operations for really a minimal cost."

Gill noted another difference between his video and those made by the larger organizations. "Our production was pretty much done by one person," he said. "I did the camera work, wrote the script and did the interviews myself. I know some of these other organizations have a whole department of people that do nothing but produce programs. I think it just shows that you can produce something that is important without having a lot of resources, comparatively."

GILL'S SUPERVISOR agreed. "It says a lot for Bob and for SEMC that we have the kind of people that can do the kind of job we do to compete with lots of big industries that have a lot more equipment, and probably a lot more financial assistance than we do, and can win," said Jimmy Tuetken, director of public relations at SEMC.

Gill credits Mrs. Tuetken for originally developing the theme of the video two years ago. Mrs. Tuetken was involved in training sessions for local United Way solicitors when Gill suggested using some nationally produced United Way film in the sessions. "She thought it would be more effective to make our own film showing our own agencies, rather than always having some big sports star," Gill said. So he produced a program for the 1983-84 campaign which contained interviews with individuals and agencies supported by the United Way. The film was shown at fund-raising events and was viewed by several different groups. The film also was broadcast on a local cable television station.

The film proved to be so effective that Mrs. Tuetken and Gill decided to produce a similar film for the 1984-85 drive. Gill actually produced two films, each about 12 minutes long. One film profiled social agencies in the Quad-City area that benefited from United Way funds; the other featured interviews with local labor leaders explaining the benefits of the United Way programs for workers. Gill then edited those two films into a single 20-minute film and submitted it to the United Way Communications Competition.

GILL SAID IT would be difficult to estimate the cost of producing the film. "In a sense, what SEMC did was to donate my time more than anything. That's what everybody contributes to the United Way in one way or another," he said. Gill has never actually been present when his film has been shown to a community group, but he is confident about its effectiveness. "I know it's had exposure in the community," he said. "I knew it was good. I thought we would have a good chance to win something."

One person who has been an eyewitness to the film's effectiveness many times is Janet Quanton, executive director of the United Way of the Tri-Cities. "I showed the film over and over. I think a large number of people in the Granite City area have seen it," she said. "The benefit of having a local film is that we had our local agencies included in it, rather than showing a United Way national film. The reaction was excellent. People liked seeing local people in it."

The United Way director added, "I think that United Way as a name is well known, but people aren't always aware of what United Way does here in this community. Bob did a good job of letting people know what the United Way money means to the agencies that we help to fund."

GILL SAID THE local approach has been so successful that he will probably do a similar film for next year's drive. "Every year we're developing more footage," he said. "There are still organizations that are funded locally that we haven't covered. Eventually, we'll just have one program that will show them all. I feel it's a way for SEMC and the United Way to communicate with the community."

Mrs. Tuetken summed up her department's attitude toward the project, saying, "Bob reflects our thinking at SEMC about this community. One of the reasons that we help with the United Way film is that we have a strong commitment to the community. If the United Way goes well, it's good for everybody in the community. And if we have the resources available to do something that will assist in the community, then we are more than willing to do whatever we can to help."

BOB GILL, whose film on the United Way, produced for St. Elizabeth Medical Center, won the bronze award in recent video competition.

'Welcome to GC' billboard to be seen on Edwardsville Road

Vollman Advertising, a Collinsville-based outdoor advertising and public relations company, will erect a 10-foot-by-24-foot billboard with a message "Welcome to Granite City" at 2000 Edwardsville Road, Chuck Vollman, company president, announced.

"Recent negative publicity concerning the Highway Beautification Act of 1965 has hurt the outdoor advertising industry," said Vollman. "I hope this community message points to the positive aspects outdoor advertising has to offer."

The Highway Beautification Act of 1965, spearheaded by Ladybird Johnson, was designed to make roads safer and more scenic by removing advertising billboards. "By creating good-looking quality billboards with public interest in mind, I believe the industry has a bright future," Vollman predicted. He said the message, which will occupy one of the structure's two faces, is slated to stay up for 60 days.

Seat belt law

anyone any traffic tickets. It's a waste of everyone's money," Sgt. Young said, referring to the new state law which becomes effective July 1, requiring the driver and all front seat passengers to wear seat belts or face a $25 traffic fine for failure to "buckle up."

"I HAVE NEVER taken a dead person out of a seat belt. I have talked to all of our troopers and none has ever unbuckled a dead person," Sgt. Young noted. He said he has been with the state police for 18 years, 16 of those on the streets as a trooper and noted, "I have seen a lot of things I wish I hadn't. Most of those fatalities I have seen would not have been fatalities if the people had been wearing their seat belts," he continued.

He said persons who fear seat belts because of the possibility of a fire or a car going under water are betting against the odds. Only one-tenth of one percent of all reported accidents involve fires or submergences, he noted. Even in those cases, persons involved are likely to be knocked unconscious in the accident if they are not wearing their seat belts, and unconscious persons cannot get out of the car, even if there is a fire or the car is under water," he said.

Some people say they would rather be thrown from a car than be in the vehicle in a serious accident, he noted. "The chances of being killed are 25 times as great if you are tossed outside. At least inside, you have some protection. If you have seat belts on, you are going to stay inside," he added.

"HOW WELL CAN you drive a car from the passenger seat," he asked. He said he has seen several accidents where a collision from the side has caused the driver to be thrown into the passenger seat and the car then continued on its own into a tree or across the center line into an oncoming vehicle, resulting in a fatality.

"One thing seat belts do is keep you behind that wheel so you can drive that car," he said.

He also noted that in a serious crash, unrestrained persons in the auto can become very dangerous "UFOs" or "unrestrained flying objects." At 30 miles per hour, if an auto stops suddenly, a 150 pound person can fly forward with 2,000 pounds of force.

HE RELATED investigating accidents where unrestrained persons have flown into persons with seat belts on, killing both the unrestrained person and the one wearing the seat belts. Unrestrained passengers in the back seat have flown forward in accidents breaking the necks of persons in the front seat before flying through the windshields, he said. "That is why I think it is important that everyone in the car have seat belts on, not just those in the front seat."

Air bags, he said, are excellent in front-end accidents, but do not protect anyone from accidents where their cars are struck from the side or overtake.

Some parts of the new law not generally known, he said, is that drivers are responsible to see that persons ages 6 to 16 have their seat belts on. "From 6 to 16, if you (the driver) don't make them buckle up, you get the ticket. Over age 16, they get the ticket for not using their seat belts," he explained.

EXEMPTED from the seat belt law are those in vehicles made prior to Jan. 1, 1965, motorcycle riders, persons making frequent stops in vehicles which do not go over 15 mph, rural postal mailmen and persons who have a written statement from a physician that they shouldn't wear seat belts.

How well will the mandatory seat belt law work? Sgt. Young said that he hopes it will reduce fatalities by 20 to 25 percent. "In Australia, when they adopted a mandatory seat belt law, they cut fatalities by 50 percent in the first few months," he said.

Governor James R. Thompson said when he signed the mandatory seat belt law that he expects it to save more than 300 lives in the first year and avoid more than 43,000 injuries. He also anticipates that in accidents more than $400 million. "The Child Restraint Law adopted last year already has reduced fatalities in children by 63 percent," but has created more orphans," he said, noting that the parents of those who were killed in the same accidents because they were not wearing seat belts.

MANY NEWSPAPERS, he noted, are opposed to the mandatory seat belt law as a form of government restricting personal habits. "That's not the way I see it," he said. "Other people's lives are at stake."

If you are thrown in the passenger seat and the car is driving itself, it could kill or injure another person.

He also explained that when someone is injured in an accident because he was not wearing a seat belt and the insurance company has to pay large sums of money for his hospitalization, all of the persons involved with that company end up paying for his failure to wear his seat belt. If everyone wears seat belts, insurance claims could be greatly reduced and premiums could be reduced, he continued.

FAILURE to wear a seat belt also has been found to be part of "contributory negligence" in some lawsuits involving injury accidents. He said his squad car once struck another auto and the driver, who was not wearing a seat belt, was thrown out and badly injured. The man sued the state, and the state police and Sgt. Young, but lost when the court ruled that the man would not have been badly injured had he been wearing his seat belt.

"I hope you don't wait until July 1 to start wearing your seat belts. You might not be around then," Sgt. Young urged, noting that there is a fatal accident in the United States every seven or eight minutes.

He intends to present his talks to clubs, groups, schools and "anyone who will listen" in the next few months, urging persons to wear their seat belts voluntarily, even before it becomes law.

"I AM HERE to tell you something and it's a once in a lifetime sale. You can buy a chance to live longer than you may if you don't buy it. What I am trying to tell you is the message to wear your seat belts," Sgt. Young said.

Selling historic 20th Street?

A bit of Granite City history may be paved over this summer, or it may be turned into unique historical souvenirs.

Twentieth Street between Madison Avenue and the railroad tracks, the last brick street in Granite City, is to be repaved by the Illinois Department of Transportation. It has not yet been determined whether the historic bricks, first laid before the turn of the century, will be removed before the new pavement is laid.

Economically, it would be cheaper to just pave over the bricks, but it has been the experience of many street departments that asphalt tends to "float" on bricks and will shift under heavy traffic and eventually break up.

One example is the corner of 19th Street at Madison Avenue, where constant patching is required for the pavement over the old bricks.

We have a proposal for city officials to ponder. Why not have the city street department contract with IDOT to tear up the old bricks, have a group such as Specialized Services or OATH clean the bricks and, perhaps, stamp them with some sort of logo recognizing their historic significance, and then sell the large paving bricks as souvenirs for, perhaps, 50-cents each.

We think enough Quad-Cityans would purchase a souvenir of this historic street to pay for the workers to clean and mark the bricks and also to pay for a portion of the preparation costs for the new street.

The Old Six Mile Historical Society or other group could help by researching the history of the street, which was well established by the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis, and possibly having that history printed to be kept with the bricks that are sold.

The final decision will rest with the state, but with a good proposal from the city administration and with public support, we think the history of 20th Street can be preserved and a new, solid roadway can be constructed.

Saturn: a new breed of car

Competition is the name of the game, and Saturn is the name of the frame.

General Motors announced recently that it's going full steam ahead to build and sell a small automobile that will challenge the dominance of the small-car market in the United States.

The subcompact will be known as the Saturn. It will be powered by an aluminum, four-cylinder engine and driven by a manual transmission. By the time the import-busting Saturns are ready for sale, they will have cost GM more than $4 billion.

GM indicates the Saturn will be frugal, getting up to 40 miles on a gallon of gasoline. GM expects to sell about 500,000 Saturns each year after they go into production, sometime before 1990.

Production plans call for throwing out old assembly line methods and using the most modern techniques available. Computers will guide assembly operations. Robots will inspect robots. The operation could put a whole new face on auto building.

Saturn will be built and sold by its own separate GM division since the Chevrolet was introduced in 1913.

The Saturn project eventually will employ a work force of 20,000, including 6,000 in the manufacturing plant and satellite plants — about the same size as GM's Pontiac division. Site for the main plant has not yet been selected. The state of Illinois and Madison County are among those actively trying to woo the plant.

Planning for the Saturn has been in the works for the last 2½ years. It will be smaller and lighter than the GM J-cars — more the size of the current Chevette model. It will be a front-wheel drive vehicle with both two-door and four-door models.

By the time the new car is ready for production, GM expects to learn all there is to know about Japanese car-building techniques from the plant it shares with Toyota in Fremont, Calif.

Unlike other GM divisions, the new Saturn operation will bargain for its own labor contracts. Saturn will have its own dealerships, some of which may sell other GM cars.

"This car, we hope, will be less labor-intensive, less material-intensive than anything we've ever done before," says GM Chairman Roger B. Smith.

And we hope the Saturn proves to be the kind of car that will restore the United States to its once-dominant rank in the car-building business.

Court rules against the truth

A curious and potentially dangerous court decision has come out of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The decision punishes one firm for reacting to false statements an employee put on her application form. When Impact Industries hired the woman, it asked if she had suffered "any serious illness in the last five years" and if she had "ever filed a worker's compensation claim." She responded "No" to both questions.

Later, the company learned that she had filed a worker's compensation claim against a prior employer, although no award was made. Impact Industries discharged her for falsely filling out her application form.

The Supreme Court reversed an earlier Circuit Court decision and held that the firing violated the state statute prohibiting a retaliatory discharge for filing a worker's compensation claim, even if that claim was made against a prior employer.

That ruling now is being challenged by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. The IMA brief, authored by Douglas F. Stevenson of Chicago, argues that the court now holds dishonesty as a new "employee right," and even rewards such behavior by imposing punitive damages against the employer for reacting to false statements.

We hope the IMA is successful in having the Supreme Court rehear the case. Truth is very important in an employer-employee relationship. When that relationship begins on a falsehood, how can that trust be maintained?

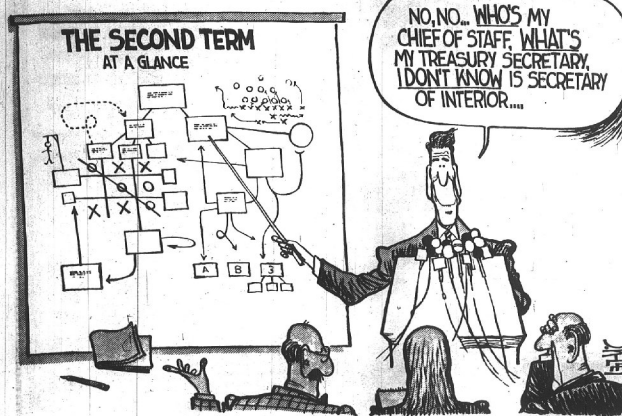

Even in today's complex society, truth should remain one of the most important building blocks. Justice prides itself on being able to get to the truth behind lawsuits and criminal charges. When a court rules that truth is not important anymore, the foundation of our society quakes.

Superbowl Hype

Press-Record readers were asked if they think all of the media attention given to the Superbowl each year adds or takes away from their personal enjoyment of the game. Their reactions follow:

Earl Harris, a Granite City businessman

"I don't think there's any question about it. The interviews definitely peak my interest in the game. It reinforces my memory about comparisons and ratios between the two teams."

Harry Mitchell, Granite City

"I think all the attention detracts from the game. The media blows things way out of proportion. You hear the comparisons over and over and it bores you to death."

J.W. Apperson, Granite City

"I think the interviews really add to the game—that makes the whole thing. If it wasn't for the media hype, the game would be nothing."

Tom Guennewig, Troy

"I think the attention adds to the game. It helps to build the game up by giving a lot of statistics and it helps educate people about the teams if they don't already know about them."

Anniversary Tuesday of legalized abortion

Soon it will be anniversary time. On Jan. 22, 1973, the U.S. Supreme Court gave the OK to abortion. Twelve years of baby-killing. Eighteen million dead babies.

Before 1973, when abortions were done, the police would arrest the perpetrators. Not so today. It is said in the county courthouse, "Abortion is legal," or "abortion is the law of the land."

But let me take you to another country, to Germany, as it was 50 years ago. Adolf Hitler was dictator. He wanted the German people to be number one in the world. He started a program of "purification" of the people. Babies born with physical or mental handicaps were done away with. Old people were called "useless eaters," and were eliminated. Soldiers who had lost arms and legs in war were dispatched, for they would no longer be any help to the nation. Jews living in Germany were rounded up and purged, six million of them. Hitler also gave the OK for unborn babies to be aborted.

This whole program was the "Law of the Land." It was established by the government — for Hitler was the president, the legislature and the Supreme Court of the country. So abortion and all the other killings were legal!

Some of the people did not agree that it was right. If they spoke out, they disappeared from their homes in the night. Others learned to be silent. Then they would not be taken to the judges. The judges, you see, were important people. They ran the show. They would decide which ones were to go to the concentration camps and which ones to the gas chambers.

After World War II, our American judges went to Germany to conduct the "War Trials." They condemned the German judges for "Crimes against Human Life." Some of them were executed!

I wish today in the U.S.A. that we would still have American judges of the kind we sent to Germany. I wish for judges who would recognize murder when they see it. I wish for judges who would know that killing innocent unborn babies by abortion is a crime against human life. Does anyone know where I can find one?

Rental on gas, electric meters surprising

To the Editor:
I would like to thank all of the Citizens Utility Board members who voted for my directorship in the recent 21st district CUB election.

In my eagerness to attend our first meeting in Chicago on Jan. 26, I have studied the biographical statements of the 21 other directors from around the state, and I am very impressed at the expertise and enthusiasm of the new board members.

I believe that the newly-elected board will be more aggressive than the appointed board and, as our members saw in our recent newsletter, they have not been idle, for they are already addressing themselves to the pending Illinois Power increase before the ICC.

The strong support that CUB got in last year's election indicates that we are a grassroots level organization. Let me give a good example of grassroots.

Aloysius Bell, CUB member from Belleville, shared some very interesting information with me about his utility bills. Mr. Bell revealed to me that from 1981-1984, the rental charge on his electric meter increased 176 percent and the rental on his gas meter increased 227 percent.

I didn't even realize that we paid rent on our meters. With Illinois Power, the monthly rental of electric meters is $8.50.

Sitting at Mr. Bell's kitchen table, we figured that the yearly rate for the electric meter rental is $78 and for the gas meter it is $102. This means that if our meters last for 10 years, we have $780 rental on the electric meters and 1,020 rental on the gas meters.

How much do those meters cost, and how often are they replaced and rebuilt?

PRaises WORK OF VISITING NURSE ASSN.

To the Editor:

A recent notice which appeared in your newspaper reminded me of the fact that an expression of appreciation was long overdue.

Last year my husband had surgery and required home care and supervision after leaving the hospital. The surgeon had contacted the Visiting Nurse Association of St. Clair County to arrange for that care. We certainly feel that the help we were given contributed greatly to his recovery. The nurses were kind, patient, efficient — willing to explain what could be expected, and reassuring when we had any concern. We were told that we could call the office at any time if there were

I thank Mr. Bell for his enlightening statistics, which I plan to take to the state meeting to see if other utility companies have such seemingly exorbitant rental charges in their utility bills.

With strong leadership at the state level and alert CUB members like Mr. Bell at the local level, I see CUB as opening a new era of accountability on utility matters across the state.

questions or need of immediate help. We looked forward to their visits.

During the time that my husband was incapacitated, it was necessary for me to have calarect surgery. We were informed that the association also provided an individual for housework for a limited number of times.

We certainly have never hesitated to praise the work of this organization. I might add that we had not realized until we had need of their services that the Visiting Nurse Association is one of the organizations which receives partial support from the United Way.

MIOFSKY SAID earlier that it is not unusual for the Knights of Columbus to open their lounges to the public, even though they are thought of as a fraternal organization. He said that the councils in Quincy, Springfield and Decatur have lounges or other facilities that are open to non-members.

Pres. Kelly Hogan said failure to accept the offer could lead to higher interest costs. He concluded, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

THE MOTION to sell was made by Partney, with a second by Mrs. Lahr. Also supporting the decision were Hogan, Worthen, Melton and Thomas Miosky, acting secretary.

Portions of the bond resolution were reviewed briefly for the board by Attorney William Schooley III, son of the school attorney.

GCC's Gardner named Athlete of the Month

By JOE THOMPSON
of The Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Walt Whitaker says this about Chuck Gardner, who wrestles for the Granite City Center Stars in the 126-pound division.

"He comes from a Class A school (West Frankfort). If they're all like him, I'll take every one of them. He's a great kid... Chuck is one of those ideal kids you get every once in a while."

Whitaker, the head coach of Granite City Center Star's wrestling team, wasn't blowing any smoke.

As a wrestler, the blond-haired Gardner, the Granite City Press-Record's selection as "Athlete of the Month" for December, has turned in a hefty 6-2 record for the Stars. GCC is 3-3 in dual meets as of last week.

Among those who have fallen victim to Gardner, a sophomore, was an eighth-place finisher in the 1984 College National Tournament last year.

Gardner had come within one victory of reaching the nationals as a freshman. Thus, his triumph this season over a participant in the nationals not only tells him he's gotten better over last year — "I've improved 100 percent," he says — but that he also has a good chance to qualify for the national tournament this season.

In vastly improving his wrestling skills, Gardner involved another part of himself. His love for God.

HE TOURS Peru and Ecuador last summer with a wrestling team affiliated with the Christian Athletes In Action.

While touring, Chuck and the other Christian athletes combined wrestling with sharing their faith and love for Jesus Christ.

Chuck said he testified "six or seven" times in front of about 7,000 people, which is not that many fewer than the entire population (9,600) of West Frankfort, a town located about 10 miles north of Carbondale.

The formal was intriguing. "First, we'd wrestle them to get their respect," says Chuck.

During the meet, the Christian wrestlers would then begin delivering their testimonies.

AS FOR Gardner, among other things, "I explained to them how to accept the Lord and how to pray."

The tour lasted five weeks. It was costly. Gardner raised $3,200 through his church and business donations to help cover his expenses.

While touring, the Athletes In Action handed out 15,000 pamphlets to determine how South Americans felt about Christianity after hearing the testimonies.

Gardner says he doesn't know how many he might have helped convert, but he posted a 13-2 record in wrestling. Both losses were to Ecuador's national champion.

GARDNER'S future plans after graduating from Granite City Center also follow a straight and narrow path, the kind of road best understood by Whitaker, and others like him, who share a passionate love for wrestling.

Gardner, who attended Granite City Center after learning the highly-respected Whitaker would be involved with the program, intends to enroll at a four-year college, hopefully via a scholarship. He plans to obtain a degree or certificate to teach.

Armed with that, he intends to return to West Frankfort and coach the high school wrestling team.

YOU SEE, Gardner will be the first to tell you he didn't get much help in the way of coaching assistance at West Frankfort. For that matter, West Frankfort's coach, Ron Winter, will tell you the same.

"He (Winter) was a driver's education instructor," says Gardner. "They were going to drop the wrestling program. He took it over just so we could have a team."

Winter had never seen a wrestling meet. His knowledge of the sport didn't progress much, either. Winter often left the teaching part of the coaching to Gardner and another student wrestler.

DESPITE the lack of skilled coaching, Gardner qualified for the state playoffs two years at West Frankfort, but never placed. He wonders how much better he might have done had he a bona fide coach.

"I had almost everything on my own," says Gardner. "I didn't really have a coach to teach me. Since then, I've wanted to be a coach and go back to West Frankfort."

Don't worry, the job is a lock. Winter hasn't changed his feelings for the sport.

"I talked with him (Winter) a couple of weeks ago," says Gardner with a smile. "He's about 100 pounds of it. He says he can't wait until I get my teacher's certificate so that I can have the job."

WHY wrestling? Gardner sounds like the prospective coach that he is. "It's the best sport there is. You're one on one with a guy who is the same size as yourself. It's a great sport for small people. There are no 90-pounders going against guys 200 pounds like in football," Gardner says.

In that, Gardner speaks from experience. "I had almost everything on my own," says Gardner. "I didn't really

In Litchfield Tournament

Devils bewitch Trojans for consolation title

By JAMES BLASINGAME
of The Press-Record

LITCHFIELD — For the second time this season, the Venice Red Devils and the Madison Trojans squared off to prove basketball superiority. A month ago the two squads met in Venice, and the Red Devils pulled out a 74-72 overtime victory.

In that contest, the Trojans blew an 11-point lead in the final five minutes of regulation, before folding in the extra period.

On Saturday night, the roundball rivals faced each other again, and this time the stakes were higher. The winner would bring home the consolation championship in the 18th Annual Litchfield Invitational Basketball Tournament.

AS IN their previous meeting, the game went down to the wire. Madison led 69-66 with three minutes remaining, but like before, the Red Devils emerged with a 74-69 triumph.

Trojan fans have to be shaking their heads and wondering if there is really something to the nickname "Devils." Once again, it was a game that Madison should have won.

While Venice played an aggressive, sound second half, the game was decided by two things the Trojans didn't do... stay out of foul trouble and shoot free throws well down the stretch.

MADISON was forced to play the final 5:49 without senior guard Delroy Williams. Williams, selected to the All-Tournament second team, retired to the bench with his fifth personal foul. Three minutes later, the Trojans' leading scorer, 6-foot-4-inch Reggie Banks, joined him. Madison was already without power forward James Bennett (ankle injury), and when Banks left the lineup, the Trojans' rebounding went with him.

If there is one ingredient needed to beat the Red Devils, it's rebounding. Despite the team's lack of height, Venice pounds the backboards by compensating with aggressiveness and good positioning.

BEFORE the contest, Madison coach Rodney Watson stated that, with Bennett out of the lineup, the Trojans were going to have to be "more conscious of" the Devils' board strength. Afterwards, he praised two of Venice's glass cleaners.

"That was our objective — to keep (6-2, 200-pound, Darren) Wise and (6-2, 200-pound, Milton) off the boards," said Watson. "Wise really boardest. Milton gets those garbage buckets underneath, and he kills you. I'm really impressed with him. He's a key to their ball club."

"Wise was phenomenal on the boards," said Venice coach Clinton Harris Jr. "He got 16 rebounds. They (Madison) were beating us with the second shot in the first half. They'd miss the first shot, then get the rebound and put it in."

"THAT'S" what won the game for us — our rebounding in the second half and our free throw shooting."

Free throw shooting. In close ball games, it usually means the difference between winning and losing. Harris called a 10:30 am Saturday morning practice for the sole purpose of working on free throw shooting. It paid off for the Devils.

Venice trailed by a point entering the fourth quarter 52-51. In that final period, the Red Devils made 11 of 14 attempts from the charity stripe, shooting 78 percent. Madison, on the other hand, hit on only three of 10 from the foul line for a miserable 30 percent.

"THE FREE throw shooting down the stretch really cooked our goose," Watson said.

With 1:06 left and the Trojans in front 69-67, Madison's Reggie Young missed the front end of a one-and-one. Wise hauled in the miss and gave a pass to Red Devil Ed Ware who promptly canned a jumper from 18 feet out to knot the score at 69.

After the inbound pass, Venice's Jesse Hall, also named to the second all-tournament team, swiped the ball from a Trojan guard and converted a three-point play to put the Devils out in front 72-69.

MADISON had a chance to cut the margin to a point, when Anthony Newson, a 5-9 senior guard, walked to the free throw line with 41 ticks on the clock. But Newson bounced both shots off the iron, and the Trojans were finished.

"He just missed 'em," Watson said. "He's not the kind of kid who chokes — he'd like to have the ball when the game's on the line. It's not a matter of he choked, he just missed."

Hall added two more foul shots for Venice to close out the scoring, and the Red Devils had stolen another victory.

HARRIS gave credit to all of his players, calling the win a team victory, but noted that 5-8 senior guard Damon Harris had played "his best game of the year."

"Damon controlled the offense, tonight... Ware did a good job coming off the bench... Milton helped us on the boards... Jackson played real good defense... Jesse played good defense and had a good offensive night... Vincent (Harris) helped by giving Damon a rest... everybody contributed."

Indeed, everyone did contribute as the Devils had five players in double figures. Ware led Venice with 17. Hall scored 15, Damon Harris 14, Jackson 13, and Milton 10.

For the Trojans, Banks led with 21 points and Newson chipped in 16.

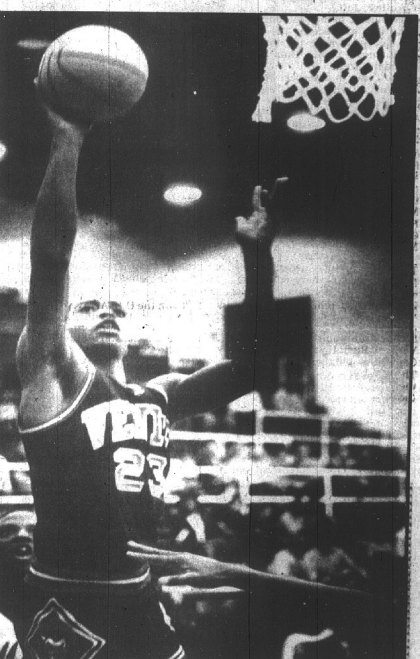

In the championship bracket of the tournament, Litchfield, the host school emerged as the overall winner, defeating Mt. Zion 63-62.

Venice and Madison return to action Friday night on their home courts. Venice will host Lovejoy, while Madison entertains Lebanon.

Healing Warriors perform well

HAZELWOOD — Four Granite City High School wrestlers were unbeatable Saturday in a Hazelwood Central quadrangular meet and earned championships in their respective weight classes.

Among the four were Vince Sleska, who completed this weekend for the first time since suffering a shoulder injury during a Warriors' football game in late October. Sleska scored a 16-0 decision over Hazelwood's Trini Cano. Pinned Roxana's Craig Roberson in 2:58 and wrapped up the 126-pound championship with a 19-1 win over Wentzville's Walter Davis.

SLESKA's return to wrestling wasn't all glory, however.

On Friday night, the Warriors defeated Parkway West by a solid 47-16 score. But Sleska's season debut wasn't as impressive, as Parkway's Mike Ewing pinned the Granite City senior in a quick 1:39. Granite City coach Bill Schmitt said Sleska had a rude welcome back.

"He wasn't quite ready," admitted Schmitt. "That guy came at him and just didn't stop. He caught him off guard."

"But he picked it up at the quad. If he had the other match to do over, I think he might have done things a lot different."

JEFF COTTER, Mark Whitaker and Tracey McElroy also earned championships in the Hazelwood Central meet, which was won by the Warriors with 195 points. Roxana finished second with 155, Granite City took third with 151 and Wentzville finished fourth with 160.

Cotter and McElroy each picked up two pins and a decision in their matches. Whitaker earned a pin and two decisions.

"Cotter had a pretty good weekend," said Schmitt. "His record is 29-1, I believe, and he was 4-0 this weekend. For that matter, so were McElroy and Whitaker."

The 98-pound Cotter won a 16-0 decision Friday over Parkway's Paul Galang, while 145-pound Whitaker pinned Mark Sink in 5:19 and 185-pound McElroy won by a forfeit.

ALSO returning for the Warriors over the weekend was Steve Knogl, who suffered an elbow injury during the second week of wrestling competition. Knogl pinned Parkway's Hoyte Cole in 1:26 on Friday and won two out of three matches on Saturday. His loss, a 7-5 decision in the 167-pound class to Wentzville's John McBride, was blamed on lack of stamina.

"That last match he just ran out of gas," said Schmitt. "He looked like he only had six gallons in a 10-gallon tank. He just wasn't in condition to go three matches in one day."

The return of Sleska and Knogl was offset by the absence of 165-pound Darrin Singleton, who was out with the flu. Also absent were 112-pound Gary Mann, who suffered an injury during the Granite City holiday tournament, and 132-pound Mike Lewis, who was hurt in a Jan. 6 match. Both wrestlers are expected to be back in the lineup soon, according to Schmitt.

"If we ever get our best lineup, we'll be pretty tough," said Schmitt. "We're hoping to get back in shape by regional time."

The Warriors next opponent will be Cahokia in a home meet Friday, with action scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Run Record To 10-5

Warriors topple Hiltoppers, 75-44

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of The Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — For a few high school basketball teams — particularly the good ones — some Friday nights are easier than others. Such was the Warriors' game with Hillsboro in Memorial Gymnasium Friday.

A 75-44 romp, the Warriors coasted to an easy victory, their 10th in 15 games this season. The Hiltoppers, meanwhile, dropped to 3-10. From the outset, the Warriors were in control of the game despite getting an early lead and then relinquishing it.

The first to score, the Warriors went ahead with only five ticks of the clock as 6-foot 9-inch senior center Don Stevanus tipped the ball to forward Scott Cant who passed to guard Jeff Gray for the opening bucket.

Hillsboro's Eric Hobbie came back to tie the contest at two and then, with a follow-up bank shot, provided the Toppers with the lead.

The Hiltoppers held on to a slim lead for four minutes before the Warriors warmed up.

With less than three minutes remaining in the first quarter, 6-foot 5-inch senior Cant tied the game at eight and then 6-foot 2-inch senior Jeff Gray sank a looping jumper to give the Warriors a 10-8 lead, a lead they improved upon as the game waned on.

The biggest reason for the Warrior victory is their experience and obvious height advantage over the Toppers. Starting four seniors and a junior, the Warriors could have beaten Hillsboro by much more had Warrior Coach Don Deterding not begun substituting two minutes into the fourth quarter. Hillsboro's starting five consisted of a senior, a junior and three sophomores.

NOW HEAVILY did Deterding substitute?

Let's put it this way. Everyone played, and nearly everyone scored.

As for the Warriors' height advantage, well, it was more than just a couple of inches. Granite City's starting five — Stevanus, Cant, Kurt Hylla and Jeff and Joe Gray — average 6-foot 3-inches. Hillsboro's starting five average 5-foot 10-inches.

That collective 5-inch advantage went a long way towards rebounds and generally better-positioned

The Gray Bros: Different personalities working for GCHS' basketball success

By JOE THOMPSON
of The Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — There was a rarity, of sorts, for the Granite City High Warriors in their romp over Hillsboro Friday night.

With 10 points, Joe Gray, a junior, matched the scoring output of his older brother, Jeff.

It was unusual in that Jeff normally is the one who scores the most points. Not just more points than Joe, but more points than most players in the area.

Jeff, you see, is a scorer. Joe, in turn, is the guy who assists Jeff and other Warrior players put the ball through the hoop. Joe is the Warriors' playmaker from his position at point guard.

FRANKLYN: Joe is supposed to pass the ball to the open teammate for him to shoot. More often than not, that open player has been Jeff.

This is fine and dandy, except that those, like Joe who helps others score, don't generally get their names placed in the headlines or find themselves mentioned very prominently in news articles.

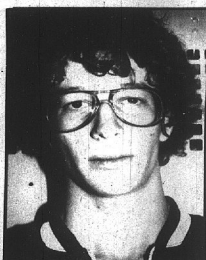

The scorers, in turn, generally get more than their share of what athletes refer to as "pub." That's publicity to those who probably also think Dr. J. is Marcus Welby's grandson.

The lack of publicity is alright with Joe, though. He's also happy to see his brother get the "ink."

HE DESERVES IT, says Joe. "He scores the points. He should get the recognition. And he's a senior."

Says Jeff, "It's really a team game. It seems like the shooter does get more publicity. We can't do it without the ballhandlers."

Seems like it's always been that way for the two oldest sons of Ed and

Jeff Gray

Joe Gray

Marie Gray. Jeff and Joe have played basketball together since, well, since they first started playing the game.

"In grade school we played the same way," says Jeff. "He was the controller. I was the shooter. Joe has always been able to handle the ball better. It's worked out."

"I'm the playmaker. He's the shooter," says Joe simply.

THE ARRANGEMENT has worked out fine. In fact, better than that.

"It's great," says Warrior coach Don Deterding, who points out Jeff and Joe are the first starting brother combination in his coaching tenure at Granite City.

Deterding says that Joe has fully accepted his role as playmaker.

"Joe doesn't get a lot of points, but he does the job," says Deterding.

Deterding can emphasize with the two roles. As a player at Collinsville High, Deterding was the Kahoks' center and premier scorer. That changed when he went to college.

"They made a guard out of me," Deterding says. "All of a sudden I realized I wasn't too skilled."

INDEED, Deterding has great admiration for the playmaker, noting that good shooters come into the world already blessed with their adroit scoring touches while ballhandlers have to work hard to perfect their games.

"I like shooters. Don't get me wrong," says Deterding. "But I sure respect those kids who can bring the ball down the court and find the open man."

Not only do Jeff and Joe fill different roles for the rampaging Warriors — who also have been boosted in their drive to the top of the Southwestern Conference by an inspired Scott Cant, improved Don Stevanus and steady Kurt Hylla plus superb work by a host of reserve — but are unlike in other areas.

THEY HAVE completely different personalities, says Deterding. "Joe is very outgoing, very mischievous really. You can tell Joe is very aggressive and what kind of personality he has by the way he plays defense. He's just very aggressive."

Jeff, Deterding says, "is kind of easy going. Very quiet." The two also look different. Jeff wears glasses. Joe doesn't. Jeff also has curly hair, although unlike his nearsightedness, it isn't the work of Mother Nature. Jeff has had a perm. Joe's hair is straight.

The two are extremely close, personality and appearance notwithstanding.

THEIR CLOSENESS has paid off on the court, where Jeff says they know almost intuitively what the other will do.

An example of that came during the Hillsboro game when Jeff, stealing the ball, almost without looking pushed it forward to Joe, who was streaking to the other basket.

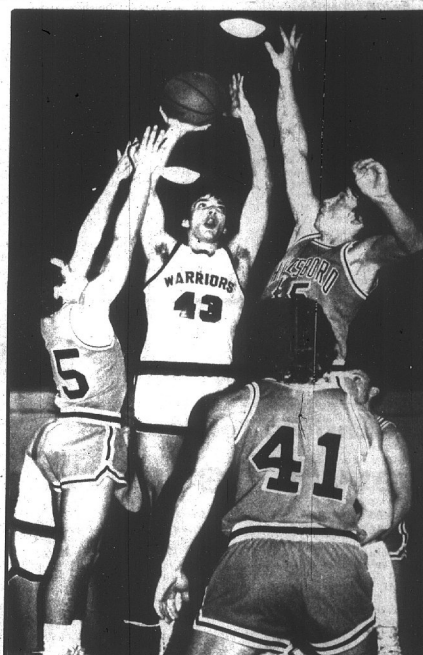

The two support each other off the court.

"We're always there if one of us needs the other," says Joe.

"We get along real well," says Jeff.

As for the difference in publicity each of them receives, Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears has been known to buy teammates gold watches for their blocking efforts.

Has Jeff treated Joe to a steak dinner for all those juicy passes? "Not yet," says Joe with a huge grin. "But he'd better."

CROWDED. Granite City High's Jerry Paul gets this shot off in the midst of a myriad of Hillsboro defenders during Friday's non-conference basketball game at GCHS. Defending on the play are Arlie Lynch (41), Eric Hobbie, (45) and Todd Leitschuh (25). The Warriors made winning as easy as Paul did this shot as they went on to win 75-44.

play. "We're such a very small and very young team," explained Hillsboro coach Harland Scheibel afterwards.

"When you give up as much height as we did tonight you're gonna give up the boards — not rebound — and it's pretty tough to win that way."

GRANITE CITY won by 30. I think they were pretty nice to us. Had Don not substituted as early as he did it would've been a lot worse," Scheibel said.

As for Deterding, he's glad about the win, but he was still critical of his team's play.

"Flat. Oh, were we flat out there tonight," the Warrior coach said. "I take the blame for that. I wasn't really pushing them hard this week at practice, but things will change next (this) week."

Sometimes it is hard for a team to get up for a big game following an easier victory such as Friday's — one in which their play was noticeably, unexcitingly flat. With an important Southwestern Conference game against Alton this Friday, Deterding sees an important challenge this week.

"IT'S REALLY a test for us," Deterding said. "I'm a little concerned about the less-structured week we'll have. It'll be tough to keep the kids thinking basketball."

At the mid-way point in the school year, many athletes will be taking tests this week, while others, depending on their grade standing, will not. Athletes not having to take semester tests, will not have to attend class. That's the "less-structured" schedule to which Deterding was referring.

In addition to the different week, the Warriors must also be concerned about a letdown after posting such a lopsided victory against the Hiltoppers.

FOLLOWING their impressive victory over East St. Louis two weeks ago, the Warriors switched to a lower gear against Hillsboro. Now they must change gears and again put their game into high gear. Something Deterding doesn't think will be a problem.

"I've seen it happen when a team couldn't readjust, but I don't foresee that happening to us. I don't anticipate any problem getting up for Alton. If there is, they're not the young men that I think they are," Deterding said of his team's maturing nature.

Another indication of the maturing Warrior team is evident through the recent publicity it has gotten in recent weeks.

"WE'RE getting the press (coverage), and it's great, but we've got people talking about state. I think it's important to put things into perspective. I don't think it's affected them yet, but it is hard for 16 and 17 year olds to put it all in perspective. We've got some level-headed ball players. I'm more concerned about the less-structured week than the publicity affecting them."

Granite City will be on the road for both of its games this weekend. Friday's game in Alton begins with Jayvee action at 6:30 while Saturday's game in St. Jacob against Triad begins at 6:15 p.m.

In Jayvee action Friday, the Warriors toppled the Hiltoppers 91-41.

Hot Shots!

WINNERS. It was a day that featured the best free throw shooters in the Tri-City Area. It was last Saturday, Jan. 12, at Grigsby Junior High School. Sponsored by the Elks Lodge 1063, 12 area youths had their moment to shine. Winners of the Elks' Annual Hoop Shoot Free Throw Tournament include (beginning front left) Matt Cook, second 12-13 years, Matt Harder, first 12-13, Julie Kern, second 12-13 girls, Kim Powlak, first 12-13 girls, and Mike Chaney, second 10-11. In the back row are Bill Russell, exhausted ruler of the lodge, Erwin Cloggett, first 10-11, Jennifer Wheeler, second 10-11, Vicky Brandt, first 8-9 girls, Jodie Kern, second 8-9 girls, David Love, first 8-9, and Mike Grubbs, second 8-9. Standing next to Grubbs is Jim McKeon, Elks' Youth Activities Chairman. Dixie Price, winner of the 10-11 girls', is not pictured.

perience. As a lightweight freshman at West Frankfort High, he gave football a whirl before his father, John, wisely steered him toward wrestling. It's a good thing. It was easy to see Gardner wasn't cut out for the sport.

"I got hurt and didn't even get to play," he says. Gardner was selected by the Press-Record sports staff, who also picked four other area athletes as Honorable Mention for their contributions to their teams during December. Following is a thumbnail sketch of those selected as Honorable Mention.

TODD HINTERSER (Granite City, hockey): Santa Claus wasn't the only one who had a good December. Hinterser did, too, with six goals and 14 assists for the Warriors. The 20 points tied him with Chris Carden and Dave Yurkovich for most points by a Warrior during December. Plenty of scoring for any offensive player. One thing, however, Hinterser doesn't play offense. He's a defenseman and he's sparked in that capacity, too.

"Todd has been playing a superb defensive game," Warrior coach Garry Henson said. "He really negates the offense of the other team. He's never out of position. He's one of the better defensemen in the league."

As for Todd's ability to clear the puck from the defensive zone — whether by skating or passing it out — Henson says, "he's superb at it."

Why so many points? Henson points out that Hinterser is equipped with an excellent shot and is adept at finding teammates open in front of the net.

One more thing, Hinterser is only a sophomore.

JAMES BENNETT (Madison, basketball): A senior, the 6-4 Bennett has been doing a lot of good things for the Trojans this season. But you'd have to go beyond the box score to find out what they are.

Tight defense, strong rebounding and consistency in his play is the suit he's worn. It's been a good fit. "James has really been doing a good job," Trojan coach Rodney Watson said. "He's played a big role for us — a big role that doesn't show up in the newspaper."

As it is, Bennett has pulled down an average 12 rebounds per game. He's also chipped in with approximately 10 points per contest. When the opponent's star player stands between 5-11 and 6-4, Bennett generally has been handed the assignment of shutting him down. Against St. Anthony, Bennett held the man he was guarding to a mere four points. Against Springfield Griffin, Bennett's defensive vice allowed him just six points. Bennett also pulled down 13 rebounds in the contest.

Bass Club seeks members
The Master Casters Bass Club of the Tri-Cities Area is seeking new members as it begins its 1985 fishing season.

Members are invited to attend a club meeting the first Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m.

Meetings include bass fishing seminars, movies and tournament drawings. A $10 initial entry fee and $3 monthly dues are required. Tournament entry fees are $7.

Persons seeking further information about the Master Casters should call either John Moore at 877-8368 or Bob Rill at 878-0276.

The club has slated eight tournaments for 1985, beginning as early as March 17.

test. "Those have been probably his best games," said Watson.

DEBBIE INABRY (Granite City, basketball): Brandt has been one of those players whose reputation for success has preceded her. As a result, points out Warrior coach Gordon Galbreath, Debbie has been double-teamed quite a bit this season. Still, however, the 5-9 senior, a returning starter and captain of the team this season, has managed to score nine points per game.

While opponents are paying more attention to her offensively, there isn't much they can do to hold her down when they have the ball. Debbie has taken full advantage.

"She probably leads the team in rebounding. She probably leads the team in steals," said Galbreath. "She has a knack for being in the right place at the right time."

In addition, Debbie has ably filled her role as captain. "Her leadership is a big factor," said Galbreath. "I believe she's a pretty fair student, too. She's a real nice person."

DON STEVANUS (Granite City, basketball): If Stevanus was a Wall

Street stock, the line charting his progress would have to start somewhere near the bottom. A senior, Stevanus wasn't party to a minute of varsity action last season.

But the line is now up. It's been a steady rise, too.

"He's improved every game," Warrior coach Don Deterding said. "He's had a few valleys in there, but basically there's much improvement."

Stevanus's improvement is one reason the Warriors have enjoyed such great success this season. At 6-feet 9-inches, Stevanus has averaged about two or three blocks per contest. He's become somewhat of an intimidator, with opponents now altering the arch of their shots when coming near him.

In the Warriors' huge triumph over Collinsville, Stevanus was a towering force with 16 points. "He was very instrumental in that victory," said Deterding.

"I've been pleased with his attitude, with his willingness to learn," the veteran coach said. "You can't ask for anything more than that."

High dive: No feat at all

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

My wife Joyce, with whom I'll be celebrating our 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, Feb. 3, was and still is a strong and beautiful swimmer. She claims that she can't remember when she couldn't swim.

And while she was born in Nashville, Tenn., she and her family moved to Cairo shortly after she was born in the fall of 1913. Consequently, she was what I called the natives of Cairo, "River Rats," all of whom are splendid swimmers.

In addition to a public pool, the kids had two rivers, the Ohio and the Mississippi, which they swam in regularly like a lot of others.

We've raised five children, three sons and two daughters. All are excellent swimmers and divers, too. To this day, Joyce claims all five of the kids could swim before they could walk. And, while I wouldn't bet my life on that, frankly, I can't remember when they couldn't swim, either.

In fact, they were so good at swimming I ended up with a huge inferiority complex with my sloppy dog paddling style.

However, naturally, I was very proud of them. And, never more so than after I and my family moved to Granite City from Collinsville in June of 1954.

We lived on Edison Avenue, right close to Wilson Park and its outstanding pool and tennis courts.

One Sunday afternoon in late August of 1954, my oldest daughter, Patsy, Anne and I decided to go to Wilson Park. They for the swimming and me to play some tennis.

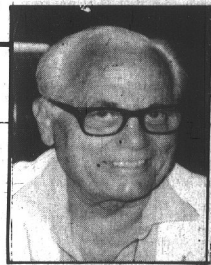

When we arrived at the pool, the girls went to the dressing room. While they dressed, I naturally ogled the pretty girls in the pool.

Shortly, they came out in their swimming suits and waved to me. They walked around the far side of the pool and headed straight for the high dive springboard.

Patsy, the oldest, was able to edge her way into the line. Anne, being just four, had to wait until the older kids got out of the way.

Finally, she made it to the top and quickly and without the least bit of fear, advanced to the tip edge of the springboard and, without the slightest delay, dove off in, what looked to me, a perfect dive, her little body entering the water without a suggestion of a splash.

Funny thing, from where I was standing, I could see the alarmed reaction of the young lifeguard as Anne walked out on the diving board. He quickly jumped down from his lifeguard seat and, at the same time, blew his whistle loudly and, in between blasts, yelled out to Anne. As Anne entered the water in her dive, the lifeguard dove into the water and started searching for her.

Meanwhile, she swam almost to the steps leading out of the pool before surfacing. And, speedily climbed up and started walking back toward the high dive.

The guard saw her right away and asked if she had just dove off the high board. "Yes, sir," she answered. And he continued, "Can you swim little girl?" he asked with concern in his voice.

"Yes, sir," she answered and added, "How do you think I got out of the water?"

Nevertheless, he made her swim across the pool and back before he permitted her to continue to swim in the deep end of the pool.

Now, a number of years later, she is the mother of my favorite 3½ grandson, David Foster Schaller, who is already showing definite signs of becoming skilled in football, basketball, tennis, soccer and, of course, another Mark Spitz.

Treatment plant renovation to cost more than expected

By SUSANNE INDELCATO
of the Press-Record

Members of the Metro-East Sanitary District Board have learned that renovations to the Cahokia Sewage Treatment Plant will cost more than originally anticipated.

Two bids to renovate the plant were opened Thursday. The apparent low bidder was Ace Pipe Cleaning, Inc., of Kansas City with a bid of $34,127. Kelly Hogan Plumbing Company of Pontoon Beach submitted a bid of $38,810.

HURST-ROSCHKE Engineers, Inc., of Hillsboro, Ill., the board's consulting engineers, estimated the cost of renovating the plant at $53,000. Last month, the MESD Board rejected a bid of $40,818 from Ace Pipe Cleaning, Inc., because it was considerably higher than an original engineer's estimate of $24,750.

Asked why the engineer's estimate had increased, Ed Czech of Hurst-Roschke Engineers said that one of the clarifiers at the plant needed more cleaning than originally thought. MESD officials noted that the bid received last month was rejected because of a discrepancy in costs to clean the clarifiers at the plant.

MESD BOARD members took no action on the bids submitted Thursday, pending a study of the bids by Hurst-Roschke Engineers.

Representatives from both bidding companies indicated to the board that their companies could begin work on the treatment plant immediately.

MESD Executive Director Walter "Shang" Greathouse commented,

ALLEGED CHECKS CASHED FROM 2 CLOSED ACCOUNTS

Already in custody on several Jan. 14 warrants alleging deceptive practice, Kathleen S. Thomas, 26, of 4036 Kathy Drive, Pontoon Beach, was named Thursday in deceptive practice warrants alleging cashing of $69, $44 and $41 checks between July 7 and 20 at K-mart, a $31 check Aug. 8 at Charlie's, a $59 check Oct. 20 at the Pontoon Road Farm Fresh, a $40 check Dec. 21 at Ravanelli's and a $60 check Jan. 1 at Ervay's.

The checks are linked to closed accounts at a Granite City bank and a St. Louis credit union. During her appearance Thursday afternoon before Circuit Judge George Moran Jr., no pleas were submitted. A $2,000 recognizance bond was set and she was released pending further court action.

Q: I travel quite a lot as part of my business, and always use travelers checks. Generally, if I have unused travelers checks, I just put them in my desk where they may stay for months. However, an associate recently mentioned I shouldn't do this. There is no expiration date, and they are safe — so what's the problem?

A: The problem is you're holding on to a non-interest paying instrument when that money — which you aren't using, could be working for you in other ways. And, of course, the company which issued the travelers checks has your money invested. If you have travelers checks left over at the end of a trip, it's generally a better idea to cash them in, or to deposit them in some sort of interest paying account — unless, of course, there is another trip in the very near future. Although they don't expire, and are safe, as you mentioned, the money they represent could be working a lot harder for you.

"I'd like to get on with this as quickly as we can. We want to get in compliance with EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) standards."

THE EPA ORDERED MESD last May to clean, repair and maintain certain parts and equipment of the Cahokia and Lansdowne Sewage Treatment Plants after an engineer's report indicated that the plants need renovation and improved maintenance.

Work by Ace Pipe Cleaning, Inc., on the Lansdowne Plant has begun. Following Thursday's meeting, it was noted that the MESD tentative budget for 1985 now is available for public viewing, and a public hearing on the tentative budget has been scheduled for Feb. 13.

THE $2,181,091 budget includes $1,116,000 in expenditures for general maintenance, $700,000 for project costs (renovation of the sewage treatment plants), $300,000 in administrative costs, $30,000 in engineering costs and $30,000 for maintenance and contingency expenses.

Greathouse noted that the budget usually calls for expenditures of approximately $2 million, based on the property tax revenues in St. Clair and Madison counties.

A reduction in the assessed value of properties in St. Clair County may negatively affect the budget, he added, but he hopes reassessment in that county will cause assessment values to increase.

GREATHOUSE ALSO contended that the MESD Board has reduced expenditures for engineering costs from $140,000 "about five or six years ago" to the current $30,000. Greathouse said the reduction is due to the use of consulting instead of in-house engineers.

Salvation Army offers Project HOPE

The Granite City Salvation Army is establishing a Project HOPE program "to reach out into the community and stimulate people to eradicate any doubts and fears they may have regarding their ability to succeed in life," according to Project HOPE Coordinator William Sunderland.

Plans call for Project HOPE services, which are free of charge, to include individual counseling, group counseling, seminars and referrals.

"Our program is especially designed to help people with adverse-diverse backgrounds conquer their emotional-social adjustment problems," Sunderland commented. "In other words, one of our goals is to show those who face discrimination—the economically deprived, the physically handicapped, ethnic minorities, mental and ex-mental patients and ex-convicts—how they can succeed in life despite the obstacles they face." Persons desiring more information about the program may call Sunderland at 451-7957.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Frequently people contact this office because they are being harassed by debt collectors. In some cases, they don't feel they owe the money, while in other instances, they have fallen on difficult times and are unable to pay. Individuals in this situation need to understand the debt collection process and the options available to the debtor.

If a creditor wishes to collect a debt, he must first file suit against the person owing the money. Many debtors fear that the creditor will immediately put a garnishment on their wages at work, thus failing to understand that wages cannot be attached without a valid judgment.

One method of collection, in addition to garnishment of wages, involves obtaining a lien upon the real estate of the debtor. If the defendant is self-employed or unemployed, it will be impossible to attach his paycheck. In this case, the creditor can file a Memorandum of Judgment in the office of the Recorder of Deeds and obtain a lien on the debtor's real estate. The creditor can then foreclose on the real estate if the debtor refuses to pay.

What happens, however, if the Court determines the defendant owes the money but he doesn't have a job and owns no real estate. In this situation, the creditor can bring a Citation to Discover Assets. This requires the debtor to appear in Court and answer all questions pertaining to his assets. The Court, pursuant to this Citation to Discover Assets, can order the defendant to make arrangements to pay off the Judgment on a monthly basis.

What can you do if you are the defendant and a Court has determined you owe the money? One alternative, of course, is to contact the creditor directly and make arrangements to pay the debt. Sometimes people complain that they have offered to pay a reasonable sum per month to satisfy the Judgment, but yet the Judgment creditor will not accept the arrangements. It is important to note, however, that the creditor is not required to accept the defendant's proposed method of payment, but rather can choose to collect the Judgment any way he sees fit.

In conclusion, it should be remembered that many debtors who are unable to satisfy judgments can find relief by filing bankruptcy. For many people, a Chapter 7 bankruptcy will stop all harassment by the creditor, and totally eliminate all outstanding bills.

Library service for the blind and handicapped theme of week

Governor James R. Thompson has declared last week as Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped Week in Illinois, to publicize the special programs Illinois libraries offer their blind and physically handicapped patrons.

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jim Edgar said the week marks the kick-off of a statewide public education campaign to encourage more blind and physically handicapped persons to take advantage of the special services available to them. The campaign's slogan is "Share Our Voice... Feel Our Words."

"Talking books and books translated into braille are just two of the ways in which Illinois libraries are reaching out to this special population to meet their educational and leisure reading needs," Edgar said.

"As state librarian, I am concerned that of the estimated 200,000 persons in this state who could benefit from these special programs, only about 15,000 are currently participating," Edgar said.

Edgar said the special programs for the blind and physically handicapped are provided by 15 Illinois library systems that are a part of the network of libraries serving the blind and physically handicapped. A wide range of magazines and books in various formats, such as records, cassettes and braille, as well as special machines to play them, are available through the network. There is no charge for any of the equipment or material, which is loaned for as long as the reader needs it. Materials and equipment are mailed to the reader and back to the library postage free.

Edgar said anyone interested in learning more about these special services may inquire at their local public library.

Operation Snowball here on Saturday, Jan. 26

The third annual Granite City Operation Snowball (GCOS) will be conducted Saturday, Jan. 26, at the Granite City Township Hall beginning at 9 a.m.

Operation Snowball is an educational and peer leadership training program. It is founded on the belief that every person has the capacity to make sound decisions regarding life, based on accurate information and understanding of one's self and motivations.

The purpose of GCOS is to bring together professional resources and teenagers from Madison and St. Clair counties to explore issues and share information about alcohol and other drug misuse and related life problems.

GCOS is sponsored by Piasa Health Care, The Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce, Granite City High School and other local businesses in cooperation with the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependency Association.

Operation Snowball is not a program for youths with drug problems. It is a prevention program designed to inform teens of the problems associated with drug abuse. It also provides skills that will help teens help their peers who may be experiencing problems associated with drug abuse and seek treatment.

More information is available from Darryl E. Calmes at Piasa Health Care, 876-5800.

This five-week series of classes includes the Lamaze method of breathing and relaxation, body conditioning, breast-feeding information, and an introduction to baby care. Participants learn about the process of labor and delivery, and the types of analgesics used in labor. A tour of the obstetrics department also is provided.

The early pregnancy series will begin on Wednesday, Feb. 6. Prepared childbirth classes will be offered beginning Feb. 26 for the Tuesday night series, and on Feb. 28 for the Thursday night series (for women whose due dates are from April 1 through May 1).

All classes are from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at McKinley School. Expectant mothers interested in these classes may register by calling the obstetrics department of SEMC at 738-3040.

Driving course to be offered Jan. 29

The 55-Alive driving course will be available in Granite City Tuesday through Thursday, Jan. 29 through Jan. 31. Officials say the program is designed to increase the older drivers' concern for normal, age-related physical changes in vision, hearing and reaction time as they affect driving, and to increase awareness of appropriate techniques for driving in complex traffic patterns.

The course will be conducted from 6 to 9 p.m. each day in Room 512 at the Granite City Center, 4550 Maryville Road. The cost is $7 per person for the three-night session and may be paid the first night of the class. Only persons 55 years of age and older are eligible.

Officials say most insurance companies will allow a discount on insurance premiums for seniors who have taken the class.

For further information or to register for the class, interested persons may call 876-3223.

FOOTNOTES

by
DR. CLAUDE HILES, D.P.M.
PODIATRIST-FOOT SPECIALIST

MODERN PODIATRY

In the 1960's the name chiropodist was changed to podiatrist. This reflected a radical change in both education and a broader variety of services offered by the podiatrist.

A podiatrist is a physician and surgeon specializing in disorders of the foot. He is as much a specialist in his field as an eye or heart specialist. The scope of today's podiatric practice ranges all the way from the routine trimming of corns and callouses to treating fractures and sprains, skin disorders, orthopedic problems, and corrective surgery.

The fact is that podiatry has become so sophisticated in its care of the foot that subspecialties have been formed within the profession. Dermatology, orthopedics, sports medicine, and podiatric surgery are examples. Although primarily concerned with the foot health of patients, the podiatrist considers their total health needs. In diagnosing, the practitioner is alert to symptoms of diseases affecting the entire body which manifest themselves in the foot.

Podiatric education requires a four year college degree followed by four years of podiatric training. Most students then serve one year of post graduate training. The curriculum is now identical to that of any other physician except the podiatrist focuses clinically on the lower extremity. Due to advances in research and technology many common problems can be diagnosed. In future issues we will discuss some of the more common foot disorders, their causes and treatment.

Presented as a public service by Claude Hiles, D.P.M., specializing in diseases and surgery of the foot.

Campaign group questions waste disposal at local plant

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
of the Press-Record

The Campaign Against Toxic Waste has called for passage of community right-to-know legislation during the current session of the Illinois General Assembly.

To support the legislation, the campaign group has released a report detailing 12 facilities where U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) tests in monitoring wells found "statistically significant levels of groundwater contamination." Included on the list is Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation on Edwardsville Road.

REILLY TAR and Chemical Corporation also is included on the group's list of 10 facilities which have or may have become recipients of wastes removed from some "of the worst, most health-threatening locations in the nation."

"Local officials, health authorities and neighboring residents have a right to be informed of the risk posed to their community by these facilities," said David Stahr, research director for the campaign. "That knowledge is critical so that proper regulatory enforcement is in place to insure community health problems are known, and adequate responses are planned for."

But Illinois EPA officials and Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation officials say the report is really much ado about nothing.

ROB POLACK, corporate officer for the plant, said the controversy centers around a lagoon that the plant is using to dispose of wastewater. "We do have a series of monitoring wells in place and, in some cases, they've been in place over two years," he explained. "To date, we don't think there is a problem. We are pleased to be using that plant to develop a state-of-the-art wastewater treatment facility to replace the old lagoon in the ground. That will eventually enable us to use the Granite City wastewater treatment plant," he explained.

Margo Dilday, environmental protection engineer at the IEPA district office in Collinsville, confirms Polack's statements. "Just because they are being assessed, it doesn't necessarily mean that they are polluting the groundwater. It just means there are statistical differences in the monitoring system."

KERI LULY, community relations coordinator for the IEPA district office, confirmed that an assessment is being conducted, which means, she said, there is a more comprehensive monitoring study than is normally conducted.

The development of a wastewater treatment facility at the plant, she added, will eliminate any problem with the on-site lagoon.

As to the question of whether or not Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation has received Superfund waste materials from other clean-ups, Polack and the IEPA officials say the plant is not and has never received such materials.

AND MRS. LULY says a reference in the Campaign Against Toxic Waste report stating that the plant is using a well system at Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation are inadequate is not true. "The monitoring well is adequate," she stated.

Meanwhile, Stahr says a revised version of community right-to-know legislation will be introduced in the Illinois House of Representatives by Woods Bowman (D-Evanston) later this month. The campaign's report states, "Such public awareness is not currently public policy. While the state has taken some steps to require that hazardous substance information be provided to employees at their workplace, there is no requirement that information be available to local officials or concerned citizens."

Stahr also expects measures to generate more cleanup funds at the state level to be introduced this session.

Valuation bribe defendants allege link between prosecutor, Weber

Removal of Bruce D. Locher as special prosecutor in an alleged assessment bribery case was sought Thursday by three of the six defendants, Merle Bassett, Gerald Bassett and Robert "Fat" Quinn.

Similar requests then were filed on behalf of the other defendants. The 3rd Circuit Court motion contends that former State's Attorney Don W. Weber has exerted and is continuing to exert influence over the prosecution. Weber earlier was removed from the assessment case, leading to Locher's selection, and Weber also lost his November 1984 re-election bid.

THERE IS NO NEED for a special prosecutor now that Richard Allen is the Madison County state's attorney, it is alleged by the trio's lawyer, Benjamin Allen (no relation to the prosecutor).

"I am not and have never been in collusion with Bruce Locher," Weber said after the motion was filed. He denied that he has sought to manipulate the prosecution.

The motion to remove Locher says he and Weber are personal friends and that Weber involved Locher in the investigation prior to Weber's removal.

THE SAME PREJUDICE and the same personal disqualifications are shared by the two, Ben Allen said. He added that Weber has "continued to control the investigation and ultimate outcome for political and personal purposes."

The special prosecutor has continued to communicate with Weber, and has allowed the former state's attorney to participate in the investigation of alleged sales of assessment reductions, the motion says. Weber is accused of interviewing witnesses and meeting with grand jurors.

Defendants along with Quinn and the Bassetts are Beverly Delaney, Board of Review Member Fred Puck and James Barton, 1972-84 county supervisor of assessments. All six have pleaded innocent.

WEBER WAS REMOVED from the case in March 1984 by Circuit Judge Philip J. O'Neill, Jr. An out-of-circuit judge later declared this was improper because Weber received no notice and no opportunity to be heard before the action was taken.

Locher was chosen by agreement of O'Neill and Weber. Rarick last week ordered Locher to show his qualification of all judges of the 3rd and 20th circuits.

THIS COUNTY'S JUDGES in November sought to block Locher from further utilization of grand jurors, but he fought the action, September 1984 indictments of four men, then were expanded in December to include six defendants and additional allegations.

Ben Allen says Locher provided no really new evidence between November and December even though the 18 counts were increased to 46.

Locher, a Springfield attorney appointed to serve here by a Quincy judge, plans to file a written response this week to motions filed Thursday and Friday. He said assertions and conclusions in the defense motions are false.

Locher was chosen by agreement of O'Neill and Weber. Rarick last week ordered Locher to show his qualification of all judges of the 3rd and 20th circuits.

Hearings on Saturn plant set this week

State economic development officials have scheduled a series of meetings for Wednesday, Jan. 23, to seek input from communities interested in proposing a site for General Motors' new Saturn automobile manufacturing facility.

"We want to give every Illinois community a chance to be considered before concrete proposals are made to GM officials," Governor James R. Thompson said. "Mayors, county board chairmen, local economic development officials and legislators are being included in briefings in Chicago, Springfield and Carbondale. These briefings will provide the details on the Saturn project that communities will need to prepare proposals to attract the plant to their areas. "ILLINOIS MUST take the initiative if we want to see the new Saturn plant and its 6,000 jobs come here. That's why the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs is moving so quickly on preparing site proposals to submit to GM officials."

The briefings, to be conducted by DCCA Director Michael T. Woelffer, are scheduled as follows: Chicago, 9 a.m. Britannica Center Auditorium, sixth floor, 310 S. Michigan Ave.; Springfield, 1 p.m., Centennial Building Auditorium, Room 161, Second and Edward Streets; and Carbondale, 4:30 p.m., Southern Illinois University Student Center, Ballroom D.

"Since the governor and I met with Joseph Sanchez, president of Saturn Corporation, and his staff last week, we have opened lines of communications with their site acquisition team and have a good idea of the type of site they are looking for," Woelffer said. "At Wednesday's briefings we are going to outline the specifics of the project and ask local officials to supply a community profile, as well as a list of incentives they are willing to provide."

"COMMUNITIES" interested in being considered as a site will have to move quickly. GM has made it quite clear it is on a fast track with this project. And given the interest of virtually every state in the Saturn facility, we want to be first in line again with specific details. That's why local proposals will have to be in DCCA hands by Jan. 29 for my staff to prepare for future meetings with GM officials," Woelffer said.

Illinois was the first state to contact GM and express an interest in bringing the Saturn facility to Illinois. Thompson talked with GM Chairman Roger Smith last Wednesday and then met with top Saturn officials in Detroit last Thursday, two days after GM unveiled the Saturn project.

Saturn, the first new GM division since 1918, is being promoted as an entirely new concept in automobile manufacturing as GM prepared to build more efficient autos more efficiently. The Saturn facility is expected to encompass four-million to five-million square feet and require a site of at least 400 acres. GM officials also want close access to a railroad and have ruled out any location on a flood plain, including Granite City, but other sites in Madison County may be considered.

James Warren named to cost management

Granite City Steel has promoted James K. Warren to the position of manager, strategic analysis. He will be responsible for coordinating cost reduction efforts with long-range business plans.

Warren joined Granite City Steel in 1969 as an industrial engineer. He has held a series of increasingly responsible positions in industrial engineering, operations and finance. His assignment before his recent promotion was manager of statistical quality and process control.

He was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in industrial management from the University of Missouri.

20th St. to be resurfaced

By SUSAN SIGNAIO-WEICH of the Press-Record
(See related editorial)

Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) officials told Granite City officials last week that the state will repave the remainder of Old Route 3, which includes the paving of the city's last brick road, 20th Street.

According to Acting City Engineer Ed Schulze, about 20 years ago Missouri Avenue was designated by the state as Illinois Route 3. When the new Route 3 was completed in 1978 (designated as Route 151 for a time), IDOT sent the city a letter taking the Route 3 designation away from Missouri Avenue and reassigning it to Route 151. State agency officials also said they would no longer supply the city with money for repairs on the road.

"AFTER A STATE is finished using a city street, it must return the street to the city in good condition," Schulze said. "So when the state repaves Missouri Avenue, the street and will officially be returned to the city."

According to Schulze, since a major portion of Missouri Avenue already has been repaved, the final sections to be repaved will be from West 25th Street to the railroad tracks and from the railroad tracks to Madison Avenue, which includes the section of 20th Street which is the last brick road in Granite City. Schulze said that, although the state has agreed to the approximate one mile of repaving, it will only pay for 24 feet, or two driving lanes, of repaving width. Since the street is approximately 30 feet wide, the city will be responsible for the cost involved in repaving the other six feet.

HE SAID HE IS not sure whether the brick section on 20th Street will simply be paved over or if the bricks will be removed and the area filled in before paving is done. He did say, however, that he would be in favor of a plan to remove the bricks. "Although it would be very expensive, I would be in favor of taking them (the bricks) out," Schulze said. "That is because of the tendency of asphalt to 'float' on top of the bricks, thus necessitating frequent repairs."

Schulze said he does not know what plan of repair will be taken because he does not know how much the state is willing to spend on the repairs. He said if the state is not willing to pay for the brick removal, the city may not be willing to take on that type of expense either—meaning the bricks would just be paved over.

SCHULZE SAID HE could not give an estimate on the city or state cost of the repairs for the repaving. He said the paving should take place in the summer months.

Schulze said it has not been decided whether the city or the state will contract out the job.
